100 U. S. EMPLOYEES ON GRAIN LIST

WHEN FIRE SWEEPED the Crowe home at North Saugus, Mass., Richard Crowe roused his wife, and while she rounded up the children, he leaped to the ground and secured a ladder to the second floor window. Helping his wife and children to escape down the ladder, he then dug deep into the blankets of a crib for his two-year-old child and then descended to the ground. On opening the blankets Crowe found them empty, the lot having dropped unnoticed while he was rushing from the burning structure. The baby perished in the flames. Crowe, suffering from burns, is shown with his wife and two of the rescued children.

Truman To Give His OK To GOP Inflation Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—President Truman will sign reluctantly today the Republican-sponsored anti-inflation bill which he denounced as a "feeble" and "pitifully inadequate" weapon against the high cost of living.

Mr. Truman made known his intentions in a special statement yesterday in which he bitterly attacked the GOP-sponsored substitute for his inflation-curb proposals, but said he will turn the bill into law because it contains some measures that are needed now.

Following release of the 1,500 word statement, White House sources indicated that the president will address a new and strongly-worded appeal to congress to give him adequate powers to halt inflation.

These sources believe this will be Mr. Truman's top domestic recommendation when he appears before a joint session in 10 days to deliver his annual "state of the union" message.

THE PRESIDENT called upon congress in his special Sabbath statement to enact promptly "an effective, workable program" when it convenes Jan. 6.

He warned that the nation still faces the "grave danger" of uncontrolled inflation and said that this can bring on a "serious depression that can cause untold hardship."

Water Office

Has No Water

Like the shoemaker who went barefooted because he could find no time to keep soles on his own shoes, the Circleville water department warehouse is in a similar predicament. It has no water supply.

Formerly occupied by the city service department, the building also houses the office of C. J. Martin, 408 East Union street, who serves as supply distribution supervisor.

Martin can point to every imaginable sort of repair, supply and replacement part necessary in getting water into Circleville homes. There are water meters, pipes, drains, couplings, wheel harrows, pumps, boots and hose. "We have it all here," Martin smiled, "everything but a water supply." The supervisor goes next door to the fire house for water.

347 Dead Counted In Palestine War

JERUSALEM, Dec. 29—At least 11 persons were killed and 40 injured today when a heavy bomb exploded at an Arab cafe near the Damascus gate of Jerusalem.

Casualties in the communal warfare between Jews and Arabs in Palestine since Nov. 29, when the United Nations decided on partition, were placed officially today at 1,149. The total included 347 dead and four persons missing and presumed dead.

Of the total dead, 147 were listed as Jews. They included 11 policemen. Arab dead totaled 181. Three of these were policemen. Other fatalities included 14 British soldiers and policemen and five other persons.

AAF Again Sets Try To Save Fliers

Crash Survivors Await Rescue

NOME, Alaska, Dec. 29—A second daring try to rescue by glider the four known survivors of an eight-man B-29 crash within the Arctic circle was planned by U. S. Airforce officials here today.

The first plane-and-glider attempt cracked up in a howling snowstorm 60 miles short of its goal and six of the eight men of the rescue party were saved from 35-below-zero temperatures by a second plane.

The two left behind, pilots of a damaged C-47 and its undamaged glider, were to be picked up today in the glider from the ice of Imuruk Basin, 60 miles south of the B-29 crash.

The landing was believed to have been the first ever made by aircraft on the treacherous Imuruk ice. The C-47 was forced to cut loose its tow and land when both its engines quit in the snowstorm.

9,600-Volt Power Line Wire

Deaths Of 4 Kentucky Persons

MARTIN, Ky., Dec. 29—A funeral service was held today for four persons who were electrocuted in a freak accident in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

The four were members of one family and neighbors. Three died trying to save the first victim of a 9,600-volt "live" wire.

Thirty-eight-year-old Robert Flanary was the first to die. He was erecting a radio aerial Saturday and tossed his aerial line over some power wires of the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company.

Flanary's six-year-old son, John Hugh, ran to his dying father and touched him. He, too, was killed.

Flanary's brother-in-law, Hugh Norris, 30, ran to help Flanary and the boy and also was electrocuted.

Norris' wife, Edith, watching the others die, attempted a rescue. She was electrocuted when she walked on the damp earth near the wire and the three persons entangled with it.

Neighbors ran to the scene and forcibly restrained Mrs. Flanary from dying with the others. An 11-year-old son of the Flanary's also was a witness and became hysterical. Everett Clark, a neighbor, separated the bodies with a piece of wood.

liable estimates which place the total fatalities at 414.

Crowds of infuriated Arabs yelling for vengeance streamed through the cobbled streets of the old city, arming themselves with stones, sticks and assorted weapons and hunting for Jews.

Arab sources reported that a taxi believed to be the vehicle from which the bomb was thrown had been stopped by Arabs who beat one occupant to death and injured two others. The taxi was wrecked and set on fire.

Police cordoned off the blood-stained Damascus gate area.

Some Arab women and children were known to be among the dead and injured.

A carload of armed Arabs rushed through the old city in pursuit of a Jewish taxi trying to escape into the Jewish quarter. When the escape was blocked, (Continued on Page Two)

Rain Or Snow

Due As Mercury Climbs

Climb Comes

By International News Service

The Ohio weather continued on the cold side today, with some moderation of temperatures and snow or rain expected by tomorrow.

The mercury dropped to as low as four degrees above zero in Zanesville this morning and 10 degrees at Columbus as a wave of frigid air blew in from Canada.

Snow in Ohio today ranged from a trace at Perry to three inches at Zanesville. There were two inches on the ground at Akron, Youngstown, East Liverpool and Columbus and one inch at Cleveland, Findlay and Mansfield.

WEATHER bureau forecasters said that light snow probably would begin following in Northern Ohio by early tomorrow.

Above freezing temperatures probably will bring rain to the southern section, observers said. High and low temperatures at various points for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today were:

Akron 27-15; Chesapeake 43-15; Cincinnati 30-21; Cleveland 29-19; Columbus 31-10; Dayton 31-17; East Liverpool 30-15; Findlay 30-14; Mansfield 26-11; Parkersburg, W. Va., 35-16; Perry 32-24; Toledo 29-12; Wilmington 34-22; Youngstown 27-18, and Zanesville 30-4.

ONE OF THE MANY THOUSANDS of cars trapped in the New York snow drifts by the worst blizzard in New York history is shoved from its curbstone by men who hope to get it running again. Their efforts, like those of innumerable others, were futile. For even on the main arteries of the metropolis, traffic was hopelessly jammed.

MANY STILL SNOWED IN

Freezing Winds Hamper New York Snow Removal

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—Freezing weather, accompanied in many areas by strong winds, moved across snowbound Atlantic seaboard states today, complicating the task of ridding streets and highways of their strangling burden.

For the most part, main rail trunk lines, arterial highways and airport runways were cleared sufficiently to permit regular, though not yet normal, operations.

Secondary highways, suburban rail lines and many isolated communities are still snowed in.

New York, which was smothered under 25.8 inches of snow, the greatest fall in the city's history, was still hard-hit today despite two days of unprecedented street cleaning operations.

ALTHOUGH many of the main thoroughfares have been cleared by an army of 20,000 men and 2,500 trucks and bulldozers, few of the side streets have been touched.

Mayor O'Dwyer has appealed to all trucks to stay out of Manhattan unless they are carrying food, fuel or medicines.

He urged every citizen to join in a cooperative effort to meet the emergency by clearing sidewalks, cutters and the areas around fire hydrants.

Cost to the city of removing the snow is now estimated at $6 million so far.

Many of New York's streets were clogged by cars and trucks abandoned during the storm.

Food supplies generally were believed sufficient and it was hoped that enough additional clearing would be done today to permit full deliveries to retailers who are running short of bread, milk, eggs and other staples.

Concern was expressed, however, over the fuel supply situation. Communities in the suburban areas of New York, Connecticut and New Jersey also were feeling the pinch.

Herbert Denies Liquor Report

Liquor Report

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today denied knowledge of liquor law violations as reportedly charged by the Steubenville Ministerial Association but promised thorough investigation of any complaints.

The governor stated: "We know nothing of their complaint, even after checking with Liquor Director Dale Dunifon. However, we welcome the cooperation of all law abiding bodies in uncovering liquor law violations."

White House Physician Named

Utah Governor Among Gamblers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Congressional investigation of commodity speculation by "government insiders" led to the White House today with disclosure of President Truman's personal physician as a heavy trader in wheat.

The name of Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, White House medical chief, stood high on a list of 100 federal, state and local government employees identified as wheat traders by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson.

Graham was shown as holding 30,000 bushels of wheat long and 20,000 short last Sept. 17, and as selling 10,000 bushels Sept. 19.

Naming of the White House physician as a speculator recalled the challenge hurled at Anderson last week by GOP Presidential Aspirant Harold Stassen, who earlier had touched off the probe of commodity market operations.

STASSEN called upon Anderson to identify persons "in the executive department of the White House," who, according to the former Minnesota governor, made large profits through their wheat investments.

The White House announced that Graham shortly will issue a statement in connection with his speculation in wheat futures.

Edwin W. Pauley, special assistant to Secretary of the Army, and who previously had been identified as a major speculator, again was listed.

Also named was Gov. H. B. Maw of Utah.

Included in the list of speculators were three comparatively minor employees of the Agriculture department, a number of Army and Navy officers, and several civilian employees of the federal government stationed in Washington.

The Agriculture department employees named were: J. Lee Zimmerman, soil surveyor (Continued on Page Two)

Lewis Is Seen

Side-Stepping Labor Rulings

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Coal industry sources believe today that John L. Lewis may avoid conflict with the Taft-Hartley law in next Spring's contract negotiations by simply waiving a union-shop provision.

The new labor statute bans the closed shop but permits a union shop if a majority of workers vote for it in an election conducted by the national labor relations board.

Lewis probably would have no difficulty in getting a majority vote for a union shop but the UMW is ineligible to use NLRB election machinery because of the refusal of its leaders to file non-Communist affidavits.

Both industry and union sources minimize the union shop issue, however, and anticipate no difficulty on it.

THE PREAMBLE to the current national bituminous coal wage agreement contains a clause stipulating that "as a condition of employment all employees shall be, or become, members of the UMW" except in exempted supervisory classifications.

This provision was negotiated prior to the effective date of the Taft-Hartley law. Industry and union representatives point out, (Continued on Page Two)

$8 Billion White Elephant Sale Scheduled

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—Uncle Sam will hold the biggest "white elephant sale" in history in the next six months—with eight billion dollars worth of "remnant" war surplus as the stock.

War Assets Administration spokesmen promise that the government will make an all-out effort to peddle the fabulous collection of odds and ends left over from America's greatest conflict by June 30, 1948, which may be the day they close their doors.

But they don't see much chance of any sizable dollar return from the "surplus surplus."

They point out that their stock, all that's left of a total 30-billion surplus, contains such hard-to-sell items as:

Ten Army ordnance works built at a cost of 500 million dollars, which will have to be decontaminated of dangerous chemicals before they can be used.

A billion dollars worth of aircraft parts and 264 million dollars worth of planes, mostly obsolete or unusable for one reason or another.

Surplus with high consumer appeal—automobiles, clothing, small pieces of equipment that can be converted to domestic use—is just about gone. So are the war plants that were readily convertible to peace time production.

Jess Larson, new WAA administrator, comments that "one grand big sale" might be the easiest and quickest way to clear his agency's shelves, but points out that under the surplus property act such a sale cannot be held.

A WAA report to the American taxpayer on just what has happened to the billions of public money spent on property now called surplus, would boil down to something like this:

Twenty-eight billion dollars worth of property has been declared surplus and one and one-third billion more will be so declared by June 30.

Twenty-one and one-half billion dollars worth of goods and real property has been disposed of.

Twelve billion dollars worth was sold, one billion dollars worth was leased and eight billion dollars worth went out under "miscellaneous" deals—scrap, donations and transfers to other agencies of government.

The only measurable return to the government was the three billion, 800 million dollars realized on the twelve billion dollars worth of property sold. Returns on leases and "miscellaneous" were negligible.

That return on sales, incidentally, represents 31.3 percent of reported costs, which WAA officials consider not bad.

They point out however, that as the cream of the surplus was skimmed off, the rate of return dropped way down. It's now about 14 percent.

Miller Ready

To Take Over

As New Mayor

Thurman Miller, Circleville's mayor-elect, is all sworn in, has his $1,000 bond posted and is all ready to take over the reins of the city from the retiring mayor, Ben Gordon.

The new city chieftain was given his oath of office last week by Mayor Gordon.

Meanwhile, Miller stated he had not yet selected a new safety director. He said Monday he hoped to make an announcement this week. He already has announced that Joseph Rooney, 950 South Pickaway street, would be his service director.

THE TWO directors, auditor and treasurer are to post bonds and receive their oaths in the immediate future.

The new councilmen—Fred Brown, Ralph Wallace and Robert Adkins—will be sworn in by the president of council, Luther Bower. The latter replaces John Goeller who is retiring after 43 years in city service.

All of the new city family officially will take office Jan. 1—Thursday—but first meeting of council is not scheduled until Jan. 6.

Truman To Give His OK To GOP Inflation Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—President Truman will sign reluctantly today the Republican-sponsored anti-inflation bill which he denounced as a "feeble" and "pitifully inadequate" weapon against the high cost of living.

Mr. Truman made known his intentions in a special statement yesterday in which he bitterly attacked the GOP-sponsored substitute for his inflation-curb proposals, but said he will turn the bill into law because it contains some measures that are needed now.

Following release of the 1,500 word statement, White House sources indicated that the president will address a new and strongly-worded appeal to congress to give him adequate powers to halt inflation.

These sources believe this will be Mr. Truman's top domestic recommendation when he appears before a joint session in 10 days to deliver his annual "state of the union message."

THE PRESIDENT called upon congress in his special Sabbath statement to enact promptly "an effective, workable program" when it convenes Jan. 6.

He warned that the nation still faces the "grave danger" of uncontrolled inflation and said that this can bring on a "serious depression that can cause untold hardship."

A billion dollars worth of aircraft parts and 264 million dollars worth of planes, mostly obsolete or unusable for one reason or another.

Surplus with high consumer appeal—automobiles, clothing, small pieces of equipment that can be converted to domestic use—is just about gone. So are the war plants that were readily convertible to peace time production.

Jess Larson, new WAA administrator, comments that "one grand big sale" might be the easiest and quickest way to clear his agency's shelves, but points out that under the surplus property act such a sale cannot be held.

A WAA report to the American taxpayer on just what has happened to the billions of public money spent on property now called surplus, would boil down to something like this:

Twenty-eight billion dollars worth of property has been declared surplus and one and one-third billion more will be so declared by June 30.

Twenty-one and one-half billion dollars worth of goods and real property has been disposed of.

Twelve billion dollars worth was sold, one billion dollars worth was leased and eight billion dollars worth went out under "miscellaneous" deals—scrap, donations and transfers to other agencies of government.

The only measurable return to the government was the three billion, 800 million dollars realized on the twelve billion dollars worth of property sold. Returns on leases and "miscellaneous" were negligible.

That return on sales, incidentally, represents 31.3 percent of reported costs, which WAA officials consider not bad. They point out, however, that as the cream of the surplus was skimmed off, the rate of return dropped way down. It's now about 14 percent.

THE PREAMBLE to the current national bituminous coal wage agreement contains a clause stipulating that "as a condition of employment all employees shall be, or become, members of the UMW" except in exempted supervisory classifications.

vayor, Lexington, N. C.; Donald J. Smith, farm labor supervisor, St. Paul, Minn., and Ralph J. Baker, soil conservation employee at Lincoln, Neb.

PAULEY, previously named among the nation's major commodity speculators, was shown on the new list as having bought 25,000 bushels of wheat last Sept. 17.

Pauley took over his War department job Sept. 11. The list named 99 "speculators" and one "hedger."

The largest single account covered in the list, which was for the period Sept. 17-20 on the Chicago wheat exchange, was carried by Daniel P. Gilbert, a Chicago policeman.

Gilbert held 40,000 bushels of wheat long and 20,000 bushels short on Sept. 17.

Gov. Maw was shown to have held 5,000 bushels of wheat futures long on Sept. 17 and to have sold 5,000 bushels Sept. 18.

E. F. Springer, postmaster at Matador, Tex., was the only government employee carried as a "hedger."

Anderson explained that the list of state, federal and municipal workers was released in advance of a complete roster of persons in the wheat market Sept. 17-20 "because of the special interest in this particular class of traders."

THE LIST went to Chairman Bridges (R) N. H., of the senate appropriations committee, which is investigating commodity dealings by "government insiders."

Anderson said the information was taken from a special survey covering all traders with positions in wheat futures in Chicago as of Sept. 17, and all who entered the market and traded on Sept. 18, 19, and 20. Pauley was the largest operator on the list of government employees who entered the market between Sept. 18 and 20, with his 25,000 bushel purchase.

On the same list, Raymond E. Pinkham, superintendent of schools of Branford, Conn., was shown to have bought 20,000 bushels on Sept. 20 and sold them the same day.

The B-29 appeared to be little damaged. It carried supplies to last a week when it disappeared last Tuesday on a long-range training flight over the North Pole from its base at Ladd Field, Fairbanks.

Rugged terrain of the northern Seward peninsula, snowstorms and the short Arctic day of only four hours have defeated efforts to reach the B-29 thus far.

Three bush pilots landed their ski-equipped planes in the area Sunday, but were driven back by fog and snow and a howling 40-mile per hour gale.

Army "weasels"—tractor type snow vehicles—and dog teams were being guided by radio toward the scene on the Serpentine river near Midnight mountain, 100 miles north of Nome.

The ice-and-snow covered country is believed too hazardous for a landing of power planes at the scene.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29—Shanghai sources were without confirmation today of Chinese rumors that 500 persons had lost their lives in the burning of a Chinese ship in the Yangtze river near Hankow.

Chairman Wolcott (R) Mich., of the house banking committee, said the bill contains a part of the President's own plan and is all he needs "to start his program," while Sen. Ball (R) Minn., declared that Mr. Truman "just wants power."

THE CHIEF executive said he will use the "meager authority" of the Taft bill to the "fullest extent" but declared that "the public must not be misled into believing that this bill will do the job."

"This bill fails to include the key measures which are essential to an effective anti-inflation program."

"This bill will not reduce the high cost of living and it will not keep prices from going even higher."

"Inflation and the high cost of living confront the American people—all the American people—with a grave danger."

"The American people look to the congress to pass legislation adequate to perform this all-important task."

The President asserted that "it is far too late in the fight against inflation—to place our main reliance upon voluntary action."

TB Seal Sale Still $500 Shy Of Drive Goal

Contributions totaling $3,000 have been received by the Pickaway County Tuberculosis Association so far in their annual drive, but is still $500 short of the goal set for the county.

Mrs. C. E. Webb, executive secretary for the association, said Monday that "although the campaign is officially over, we will continue to solicit the citizens of the county in order to put our drive over the top. We of the association plan to send out 'follow-up' cards and requests for more donations in order to satisfy our quota of $3,500. We hope that the goal may be achieved in the near future."

The $3,000 total already collected is about $600 more than was collected in a similar period last year. The drive fell $500 short last year.

The money is used by the association to curb the death rate caused by tuberculosis. The dread disease kills an average of 53,000 Americans each year.

In addition to the care and prevention of the disease in Pickaway County, the contributions collected will go, in part, toward giving sufficient medical aid to those who otherwise would be without such attention.

MRS. WEBB SAID that "while the people of Pickaway County have been generous in their support of the seal sale, a hundred per cent response is necessary if the association is to carry out the tuberculosis control program planned for the coming year. It will be a great help to us if everyone who has not yet sent in his returns will do so without delay."

The decree will become final when Barnhart post $1,000 bond. Should he fail to post bond, the decree will automatically become effective at the end of six months. Action for divorce was filed July 14, 1947.

Arabs shot dead the two Jewish occupants and set this car on fire as well.

A JEWISH vegetable vendor and a 19-year old Jewess were killed by stray shots.

Members of the militant Jewish underground Irgun Zvai Leumi organization were reported responsible for the incident as fresh Arab-Jewish violence broke out in Jerusalem and elsewhere in the Holy Land.

Within 10 minutes after the explosion, a man identifying himself as a representative of Irgun telephoned Hebrew journalists and declared Irgun was responsible.

He charged that the Damascus gate was "the meeting place for Arab gangsters."

A British police guard was killed and two soldiers were wounded when a band of steel-helmeted Jews wearing full battle dress raided a British military arsenal near Tel Aviv and seized scores of guns and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

Arab sources said that Dr. C. Malouf, Arab physician and head of the mental hospital at Bethlehem, was shot fatally by Jewish gunmen on the road to Bethlehem.

THE WHOLE area around the Damascus gate was shaken by the explosion which followed heavy bursts of machinegun fire.

The powerful bomb was hurled from a speeding car at the cafe after the occupants of the vehicle first sprayed the establishment with tommygun fire.

A short while later the nearby French mission hospital was cluttered with the dead and wounded.

however, that the UMW operated for many years without such a provision and actually has little need for it.

Lewis has represented the nation's miners effectively for so long that there is little question of his being able to maintain the UMW membership. Moreover, the industry wants no organizing competition from outside unions.

The 1941 coal wage agreement, which was carried forward during the war years except for changes in wages and hours, contained no union chop clause. It had only a statement on management's right to "hire and discharge" employees.

Industry spokesmen are frank to admit that they have no desire to make an issue of the union shop question and risk an interruption to present high-volume, profitable production.

THEIR CHIEF concern is with Lewis' demand for establishment of a pension program to pay each miner over 60, with 20 years of service, a pension of $100 a month.

The coal operators thus far have rejected the UMW chief's demand, despite the fact that he asked for an agreement on the pension plan by Jan. 1.

house leader, contended that the measure never was described by its supporters as a complete remedy for high prices but declared that if "properly administered" it will do much to adjust the situation.

Chairman Wolcott (R) Mich., of the house banking committee, said the bill contains a part of the President's own plan and is all he needs "to start his program," while Sen. Ball (R) Minn., declared that Mr. Truman "just wants power."

THE CHIEF executive said he will use the "meager authority" of the Taft bill to the "fullest extent" but declared that "the public must not be misled into believing that this bill will do the job."

He said: "This bill fails to include the key measures which are essential to an effective anti-inflation program."

"This bill will not reduce the high cost of living and it will not keep prices from going even higher."

"Inflation and the high cost of living confront the American people—all the American people—with a grave danger."

"The American people look to the congress to pass legislation adequate to perform this all-important task."

The President asserted that "it is far too late in the fight against inflation—to place our main reliance upon voluntary action."

been clearly audible in the center of Mukden for the past two nights and the Communist shells have been falling in the city's western suburbs.

Government combat planes bombed and strafed the Communist siege forces without respite, but the Reds kept on storming Mukden's defenses from three sides—the north, west and south.

United States consular authorities in Peiping said today no official steps have been undertaken as yet to evacuate the dozen Americans from the Manchurian city.

'Copter Crash Kills 2 Yanks

NAPLES, Dec. 29—Two men were killed and a third was injured today when a helicopter from the United States Aircraft Carrier Midway crashed in Naples harbor.

The dead were identified as Jack Jeter and Robert Lamm. Italian firemen rescued the crewmen from the wreck, which occurred when propeller trouble hampered the helicopter in its takeoff, but the two men died on the way to the hospital.

Ship Disaster Unconfirmed

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29—Shanghai sources were without confirmation today of Chinese rumors that 500 persons had lost their lives in the burning of a Chinese ship in the Yangtze river near Hankow.

The wholly unconfirmed reports were circulated by Chinese papers in Nanking. They were treated with reserve in Shanghai.

TB Seal Sale Still $500 Shy Of Drive Goal

Contributions totaling $3,000 have been received by the Pickaway County Tuberculosis Association so far in their annual drive, but it is still $500 short of the goal set for the county.

Mrs. C. E. Webb, executive secretary for the association, said Monday that "although the campaign is officially over, we will continue to solicit the citizens of the county in order to put our drive over the top. We of the association plan to send out 'follow-up' cards and requests for more donations in order to satisfy our quota of $3,500. We hope that the goal may be achieved in the near future."

The $3,000 total already collected is about $600 more than was collected in a similar period last year. The drive fell $500 short last year.

The money is used by the association to curb the death rate caused by tuberculosis. The dread disease kills an average of 53,000 Americans each year.

In addition to the care and prevention of the disease in Pickaway County, the contributions collected will go, in part, toward giving sufficient medical aid to those who otherwise would be without such attention.

MRS. WEBB SAID that "while the people of Pickaway County have been generous in their support of the seal sale, a hundred per cent response is necessary if the association is to carry out the tuberculosis control program planned for the coming year. It will be a great help to us if everyone who has not yet sent in his returns will do so without delay."

Greeks Press Battle Against Rebel Forces to prevent Greek army reinforcements from reaching isolated Konitsa, abandoned guerrilla tactics for the first time and met the Athens forces in regular army formation.

Child's Custody Given Mother

Custody of her seven-year-old son, Robert, was granted to Estella T. Barnhart whose petition for divorce from Robert O. Barnhart was approved Monday in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

She charged her mate with gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. As plaintiff, she said they were married June 25, 1934 in Circleville.

The decree will become final when Barnhart post $1,000 bond. Should he fail to post bond, the decree will automatically become effective at the end of six months. Action for divorce was filed July 14, 1947.

Fireman Killed

WALTON, Ky., Dec. 29—A volunteer fireman was killed and two others injured today when a fire truck overturned enroute to a blaze here. The dead fireman was identified as 19-year-old James Isabel.

347 Dead Counted In Palestine

Arabs shot dead the two Jewish occupants and set this car on fire as well.

A JEWISH vegetable vendor and a 19-year old Jewess were killed by stray shots.

Members of the militant Jewish underground Irgun Zvai Leumi organization were reported responsible for the incident as fresh Arab-Jewish violence broke out in Jerusalem and elsewhere in the Holy Land.

Within 10 minutes after the explosion, a man identifying himself as a representative of Irgun telephoned Hebrew journalists and declared Irgun was responsible.

He charged that the Damascus gate was "the meeting place for Arab gangsters."

A British police guard was killed and two soldiers were wounded when a band of steel-helmeted Jews wearing full battle dress raided a British military arsenal near Tel Aviv and seized scores of guns and thousands of rounds of ammunition.

Arab sources said that Dr. C. Malouf, Arab physician and head of the mental hospital at Bethlehem, was shot fatally by Jewish gunmen on the road to Bethlehem.

THE WHOLE area around the Damascus gate was shaken by the explosion which followed heavy bursts of machinegun fire.

The powerful bomb was hurled from a speeding car at the cafe after the occupants of the vehicle first sprayed the establishment with tommygun fire.

A short while later the nearby French mission hospital was cluttered with the dead and wounded.

Lewis Is Seen Side-Stepping Labor Rulings

however, that the UMW operated for many years without such a provision and actually has little need for it.

Lewis has represented the nation's miners effectively for so long that there is little question of his being able to maintain the UMW membership. Moreover, the industry wants no organizing competition from outside unions.

The 1941 coal wage agreement, which was carried forward during the war years except for changes in wages and hours, contained no union chop clause. It had only a statement on management's right to "hire and discharge" employees.

Industry spokesmen are frank to admit that they have no desire to make an issue of the union shop question and risk an interruption to present high-volume, profitable production.

THEIR CHIEF concern is with Lewis' demand for establishment of a pension program to pay each miner over 60, with 20 years of service, a pension of $100 a month.

The coal operators thus far have rejected the UMW chief's demand, despite the fact that he asked for an agreement on the pension plan by Jan. 1.

16 Persons To Attend Youth Rally

Methodists Plan For Convention

Five Circleville area Methodist churches will send 16 representatives to a youth convention in Cleveland which starts Tuesday.

The New Holland, Mt. Sterling, Amanda, Ashville, and Kingston Methodist churches have chosen delegates for the affair.

New Holland, Kingston and Ashville churches will each send two representatives while Mt. Sterling and Amanda each will send three.

These churches are in the Chillicothe district which will have a total of 35 delegates plus four adult counselors.

ADULTS who will accompany the youths are Miss Ella Lindille, president of the Chillicothe district; the Rev. John Taylor, Chillicothe; the Rev. Thomas Smith, Pleasantville; and the Rev. Leonard Mann, Kingston.

Circleville's First Methodist church will not participate. Highlight of the convention is to be a "watch night service," which is to be the largest yet most quiet mass observance of New Year's in the history of Cleveland.

The 35 American Methodist Bishops and some 300 clergymen are to take part in a vast communion worship.

The local delegates are to leave Columbus Tuesday noon, and will travel to the convention via a private car on the New York Central railroad. When they return, the youths plan to hold a large rally in Lancaster.

First Telenews Service Set Up By INS

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—The first complete television news service was announced jointly today by International News Service, International News Photos, and Telenews Productions, Inc.

The three organizations will produce a daily service of newsreels, still news photos, and teletype news, specifically tailored for television.

Operations will be completely coordinated, to make possible full three-way coverage of world events.

This marks the first time in the history of newsreel production that an established newsreel organization has joined with a leading worldwide press service to provide comprehensive and current pictorial news service, both American and foreign, for showing to the public.

THE VARIOUS types of service will be available as complete "packages" for television stations, networks, or sponsors. Newsreels will be produced by Telenews, in association with INS and INP.

The three parts of the service have been tested in actual operation for some time, and the joint undertaking is moving into production quickly, with the first actual newsreel releases to be available in February.

From the very beginning of the new service, Telenews will offer the first daily American and worldwide newsreel coverage ever attempted. The volume of film news will also be the largest ever offered by any newsreel.

Of the total urban area traffic accident fatalities, last year 8,200 happened at night, according to the National Safety Council.

Ex-King Victor Emmanuel Dies In Alexandria

CAIRO, Dec. 29—Funeral arrangements for Ex-King Victor Emmanuel III of Italy, who died in exile yesterday in Alexandria, were held up today pending the arrival of his son, former King Humbert II, from Portugal.

Humbert left Lisbon this morning aboard a Trans-World Airlines plane for Cairo by way of Madrid and Algiers. His departure had been delayed since yesterday because of bad weather.

Victor Emmanuel, 78, succumbed to a lung congestion. Ill for two weeks, his condition was complicated by a weak heart and hardening of the arteries.

King Farouk of Egypt ordered seven days of court mourning out of respect to the man who had been Italy's king for 46 years.

VICTOR Emmanuel, during whose reign the Fascists came to power and Benito Mussolini became the ruling force, died a broken-hearted exile.

He came to Egypt in May, 1946, after abdicating in favor of his son.

Humbert, who had ruled as lieutenant-general of the realm since June 5, 1944, under the Allied occupation, held the throne only a month. In a referendum on June 2, 1946, the Italian people voted to do away with the monarchy and establish a republic.

INS Foreign Observer

The vicious circle caused by Communist party interference in European affairs as against the orderly processes of a constituted government made Greece a land of turmoil today, its future uncertain to say the least.

As savage fighting continued in and around Konitsa and elsewhere the Greek government headed by Premier Themistocles Sophoulis took drastic measures to outlaw the party.

But the net result of this action was problematical.

Prisoners taken from the guerrilla forces have confirmed an earlier belief that the Communist-rebel strategy is to seize Konitsa and proclaim it to be the seat of an independent, ostensibly "free" regime.

The next step will be recognition by Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, possibly followed by Soviet Russia.

MEANWHILE the Communist party will have been superficially dissolved, meaning the recalcitrants will be arrested.

But those who wish can simply slip quietly up to Konitsa and join the forces of rebel Gen. Markos, a step they might not have taken were their organization allowed to continue functioning.

Then Greece can go to the United Nations, accused the Soviet satellites or Russia itself of endangering peace by recognizing an illegal outlawed government and there the situation rests, with deterioration its obvious outlook.

There is one alternative.

If sufficient arms and ammunition reach the Greek forces from the United States, the rebels might be put to flight for a while at least.

In reply to Greece's allegations, the Soviet nations can and will accuse the United States of prior interference in Greek affairs.

The obvious solution would be fresh elections on an absolutely free and secret basis. But these seem difficult indeed to obtain on Continental Europe.

The next step will be recognition by Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, possibly followed by Soviet Russia.

MEANWHILE the Communist party will have been superficially dissolved, meaning the recalcitrants will be arrested.

But those who wish can simply slip quietly up to Konitsa and join the forces of rebel Gen. Markos, a step they might not have taken were their organization allowed to continue functioning.

Then Greece can go to the United Nations, accused the Soviet satellites or Russia itself of endangering peace by recognizing an illegal outlawed government and there the situation rests, with deterioration its obvious outlook.

There is one alternative.

If sufficient arms and ammunition reach the Greek forces from the United States, the rebels might be put to flight for a while at least.

In reply to Greece's allegations, the Soviet nations can and will accuse the United States of prior interference in Greek affairs.

The obvious solution would be fresh elections on an absolutely free and secret basis. But these seem difficult indeed to obtain on Continental Europe.

WHO OWNS THIS STRIP?
THERE are still discoveries to be made from maps. One such will be made when it is definitely settled whether Russia and Kashmir have common boundaries. The borderland is wild country, mostly on the tops of lofty mountains, and nobody is quite clear just where the limits run. Afghanistan touches Kashmir on the northwest. That much is certain. The question now is whether China similarly touches it on the northeast, besides meeting Afghanistan. In India government officials think that there is a 20-mile gap between Afghanistan and China, and that the gap is filled by a finger of Russian territory reaching down.

In a way the question is academic. The country is too forbidding to permit settlement. Also, whether Russia actually touches Kashmir or not, she is generally admitted to control the area in doubt. But to British who for many years have dreamed of an eventual Russian threat to India, it is disturbing to think of them as almost next door.

NEW WORK ON THE SOUTH
A great gap in American historical writing is about to be closed. A large-scale "History of the South", to run to 10 volumes, is announced. The first volume has already appeared: "The South During Reconstruction, 1865-1877", by Prof. E. Merton Coulter of the University of Georgia.

The South is such an important part of the United States, and has so clearly an even greater future that it occasions surprise that it has never been treated extensively. The present project grows out of plans of the Louisiana State University and the University of Texas. Each proposed to issue a history of the South by several writers, each one a specialist. Fortunately they got together instead of competing. Historians and general readers will both watch for volumes of the set as they appear.

HOUSE NUMBERS
IN ONE respect at least Milwaukee is the most progressive city in the nation. The law permits city or county authorities to supply missing house numbers, and bill the careless property owner for them.

It's too bad such a law cannot be made universal. On far too many residences, apartment houses and business places, the number is concealed in tricky places as if the owner was doing his best to keep the whole matter a secret. In many instances numbers are actually missing. This is a needless inconvenience to delivery men, taxi drivers and the public in general.

Milwaukee sets a good example by taking house numbers seriously. Other cities and towns might well do likewise.

NEW YORK—Part of the legend about the Kiss room of this sinful town is that they are distraught, disheveled, nervous and ready for a mental and physical collapse. . . but I wonder. The pace is a breakneck one, and a few of the feeble ones among us go around talking to ourselves—but you'd be startled at the number of complacent souls who live comfortably, smoothly, evenly and with a minimum of fuss. I am thinking at the moment of Nicky Quattricchi, the graying, debonair host of El Boracho, who manages to operate a thriving boite, throw occasional parties, get around town as completely as any gay young blood—and still retain that air about him of having just eaten a good and satisfactory dinner. I studied Nicky from pointblank range last night, as he operated on his home grounds in the Kiss room of his celebrated diner-salon. The babble of strident voices and forced feminine laughter was a loud and ever-present one, as it always is in these expensive, intimate joints dedicated to the corner-table rendezvous or let-a-tete, but M. Quattricchi never batted one of his magnetic eyes. Nicky sat at a table, eating with one of the customers, and every now and then got up to shake hands with a friend or go over to a table for a visit. Mild little arguments rumbled along the mahogany, and Thomas, the famous talking mynah bird over the bar, added to the confusion by occasionally muttering hoarsely, "Tom's my name!" but Nicky took no notice. Obviously, the man has some sort of inner peace, but whether it is due to the practice of yoga or whether he was along with Tyron Power when that worthy discovered the secret of happiness high in the mountains of India in "The Razor's Edge," I do not know. No,

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days
It used to be that when anyone was unhappy wherever he found himself, he somehow managed to go elsewhere. That is how this country got its population. Pilgrim, Puritan, Quaker, Huguenot, Mennonite, Amish, Moravians, Catholics in Maryland, the Cavaliers in the South, the scourings of debtors' prisons, the hungry Irish, the German revolutionaries, Jews from Surinam and from Poland and Rumania and everywhere—the weary, the heavy-laden, searchers for justice and opportunity—they all came to America and made this cosmopolitan race, the greatest body of human beings in all the world today.

Similarly such countries as Canada, Australia, South Africa and the Argentine were populated by importations of the mixed peoples of Europe. And even in Europe itself the movement of humanity across the continent has altered population strains. The Northmen are an example of that: they settled Normandy in France; they crossed to England under the mighty William; as Varangians, they gave strength to the blood of the Ottoman Turks; the scions of Rurik founded the House of Romanoff that for centuries gave Russia her Czars. And into all the peoples of Europe were mixed Asiatic and African strains, the Turkomans and Ugurians in the north and central Europe, the Moors and Turks in the southern and Mediterranean countries.

Now there are about 2,800,000 homeless persons in Europe who have no place to go. They cannot move on their own because governments have grown so powerful that they have to control everything, including the rigid control of the movements of peoples. Free migration of peoples has, as Herrymon Maurer so aptly put it in "Fortune", ended as the changes have occurred from "free trade to quotas, from free business to state enterprise, from a measure of personal freedom to an overdose of state control." There is no such thing as a place of asylum. Nor is it because the earth has been filled; there is plenty of room.

Alaska, Canada, Australia, the Guianas, Brazil, Argentina, Madagascar, Kenya and other places in Africa, vast areas of the Soviet Union and parts of the United States are underpopulated. But even areas that need people, need strong, working populations, that want "white" population, restrict entrance.

Maurer estimates that in the nineteenth century more than 60,000,000 people left Europe; of these about 38,000,000 came to the United States. But in the twentieth century we face the problem of caring in all this world for less than 3,000,000 homeless and displaced persons and we don't know what to do about it. These bulky governments have twisted themselves into knots of administration which wraps ideas in thick parchment to be buried in the tomb of bureaucratic ineptitude. Problems that have for centuries solved themselves take on monstrous forms in the weary imaginations of permanent officials who fear the different and cave before the serious.

But human beings are homeless. They are homeless because there was a war. They are the residual victims of the war. They cannot return to the places of their birth because a brutal force has taken over there. They are unwanted.

Let us be frank about it: Shall we murder them? It would be cheaper to kill them than to keep them. Shall the statisticians

READING SOME LINES BY G. K. CHESTERTON about his beloved London the other day, we were struck by the ease with which they could be applied to New York. "London," old G. K. wrote, "is the smokiest of the modern cities; London is the dirtiest; London is, if you will, the most sombre; London is certainly the most amusing and the most amused. You may prove that we have the most tragedy; the fact remains that we have the most comedy." Manhattan, too, is smoky, dirty, sombre and miserable. But like London, it has more of everything else, too. Whatever you wish, here it is. It is small wonder that to so many of us, in the words of a well-known author, the world ends at Hoboken.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR
IT WAS NOT until the fourth morning that consciousness returned to Bill. Cathy had caught the stirring that was so slight that only she, concentrating on him as she was, could have seen. For a moment a flood of tears threatened her; but she was still a nurse, although her emotion as a woman had all but made her forget it. She grew tense, watchful, keeping an iron hand on her self-control, and when Bill's eyelids opened, slowly, unwillingly, as though there might have been weights on them, she was bending over him, and by some miracle of courage and love and blazing hope she was able to smile at him. "Hi, Cathy!" Bill meant it to be a shout. It was little more than a ghost of sound. "Hi, Bill," said Cathy, and if he saw the tears in her eyes or caught the tremor in her voice, he did not show it. Bill moved and winced and said, "Ouch!" in a tone of outraged astonishment. He stared up at her. "Hey, what happened to me?" he demanded sharply. Cathy made herself grin impishly at him, and if the grin wobbled a little, Bill was certainly in no position to realize that. "Oh, nothing much," she assured him comfortably. "A building fell on you. They tell me the Kendalls are very tough!" "Oh, sure—very tough—as you'll find out, now that you're one of them," he told her, and grinned. And then his fingers tightened on hers and he said in swift alarm, his voice faint and weak but touched with the vigor of shock, "I had the darnedest dream, Cathy—it was a nightmare!" "Did you, darling?" soothed Cathy gently. "Well, don't worry about it now. It was just a dream and now you're awake." "Cathy, I dreamed Aunt Edith gave us her blessing and then you climbed up on your high horse and said you didn't want anything from me but a divorce. It was a dream, wasn't it, Cathy?" Cathy bent and kissed him. "Of course it was a dream, darling—and you mustn't talk any more. You've got to get a lot of sleep and rest. Drink this, sweet." Bill turned his head a very little and said mutinously, "But I don't want to sleep—I just woke up. And there's a heck of a lot to be done." "If I'd done a lot faster if you drink this and go back to sleep for a while," said Cathy firmly. She held the drinking tube to his lips, and obediently Bill drank. She reported radiantly to the doctor, who was delighted with Bill's return to consciousness. Cathy knew, of course, that there had been great danger that when Bill recovered consciousness, his mind might prove to have been injured. He had had a terrific blow on the head and had lain for some time unconscious beneath the fallen timbers before they had found him. She had not dared face even in her own mind, the terrible fear that he might, if he lived, have a brain injury from which he would be long in recovering.

DIET AND HEALTH
A Painful Throat Infection
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
NOT so many years ago, strep throat was a dreaded condition, not only because it made the patient very sick, but because it left the doctor virtually helpless to aid him. Today, fortunately, we have very good weapons against it in penicillin and the sulfonamide drugs. This is not to say, however, that strep throat is a minor ailment. Caused by hemolytic streptococci germs, this condition may produce a great deal of swelling and pain in the throat, high fever, and prostration. It is the more dangerous because of the complications which often accompany it, such as middle-ear infection, abscesses in the tissue around the tonsils, or infection of the nasal sinuses.
Effective Treatment
Early treatment with penicillin seems very effective in warding off these complications. In addition, it has been noted that the giving of penicillin by injection into a muscle is followed by a rapid disappearance of the germs from the nose and throat of the affected patient. At the same time, there is a lessening of the severity of the symptoms, while the temperature returns to normal. In one series of patients treated with penicillin the temperature became normal within three days in 70% of the patients and within four days in 85% of them. It would appear that in order to obtain satisfactory results from the use of the penicillin, the treatment must be carried out over a period of at least five days; otherwise the germs will again be found in the nose and throat and the symptoms may return. Relapses prevented. It has also been noted that when certain patients were treated with penicillin and then given the sulfonamides for a period of ten days or more, relapses were prevented. There are some who believe that the penicillin treatment should be given not only to the severely ill adult patients, but to all children with strep throats, in order to ward off complications which tend to occur more frequently in children than in grownups. If the penicillin is given by mouth about three to six times a day, treatment by injection is not required.
Resistance Varies
There may be some variation in the resistance of different types of streptococci germs to the various preparations employed. Thus, it may be found in some cases that penicillin is not effective, but that the sulfonamide drugs will produce better results and quicker recovery.

Bidding No Trumps that way, and keeping his diamonds out of sight put South in position to win the top for which he was shooting in a duplicate game, but he fumbled the chance. He did it as early in the game as possible, on the very first trick—like a football back who muffs the kickoff and then sees a charging opponent fall on the ball behind the goal line.

West made the normal opening of the spade 4, the 3 going on from dummy. East playing the K and South the 9. Bing went the chance for his contract, right out the window, as he realized a little later.

South took the second spade with the Q when West was smart enough to duck it. South led to his only dummy entry, the club A, successfully negotiated the diamond Q finesse, then lamented his inability to get in the dummy for a second finesse. He laid down the diamond A, hoping to nip the K, but it was still guarded. He gave up the J to the K, and the return of East's last spade to the A enabled West to take two more spade tricks to beat the contract.

All that South had to do to succeed with his game try was put his spade Q under the K on the first trick. No power on earth could then have kept him from having the spade J or 10 as one dummy entry, and the club A for the second. He would thereby have been enabled to take two diamond finesses, thus scoring five tricks in the suit, plus two in hearts and one each in the black suits.

IT WAS NOT until the fourth morning that consciousness returned to Bill. Cathy had caught the stirring that was so slight that only she, concentrating on him as she was, could have seen. For a moment a flood of tears threatened her; but she was still a nurse, although her emotion as a woman had all but made her forget it.

She grew tense, watchful, keeping an iron hand on her self-control, and when Bill's eyelids opened slowly, unwillingly, as though there might have been weights on them, she was bending over him, and by some miracle of courage and love and blazing hope she was able to smile at him.

"Hi, Cathy!" Bill meant it to be a shout. It was little more than a ghost of sound.

"Hi, Bill," said Cathy, and if he saw the tears in her eyes or caught the tremor in her voice, he did not show it.

Bill moved and winced and said, "Ouch!" in a tone of outraged astonishment. He stared up at her. "Hey, what happened to me?" he demanded sharply.

Cathy made herself grin implacably at him, and if the grin wobbled a little, Bill was certainly in no position to realize that.

"Oh, nothing much," she assured him comfortably. "A building fell on you. They tell me the Kendalls are very tough!"

"Oh, sure—very tough—as you'll find out, now that you're one of them," he told her, and grinned. And then his fingers tightened on hers and he said in swift alarm, his voice faint and weak but touched with the vigor of shock, "I had the darnedest dream, Cathy—it was a nightmare."

"Did you, darling?" soothed Cathy gently. "Well, don't worry about it now. It was just a dream and now you're awake."

"Cathy, I dreamed Aunt Edith gave us her blessing and then you climbed up on your high horse and said you didn't want anything from me but a divorce. It was a dream, wasn't it, Cathy?"

Cathy bent and kissed him. "Of course it was a dream, darling—and you mustn't talk any more. You've got to get a lot of sleep and rest. Drink this, sweet."

Bill turned his head a very little and said mutinously, "But I don't want to sleep—I just woke up. And there's a heck of a lot to be done."

"I'll get done a lot faster if you drink this and go back to sleep for a while," said Cathy firmly. She held the drinking tube to his lips, and obediently Bill drank.

She reported radiantly to the doctor, who was delighted with Bill's return to consciousness. Cathy knew, of course, that there had been great danger that when Bill recovered consciousness, his mind might prove to have been injured. He had had a terrific blow on the head and had lain for some time unconscious beneath the fallen timbers before they had found him. She had not dared face, even in her own mind, her terrible fear that he might, if he lived, have a brain injury from which he would be long in recovering.

For Monday, December 29

Monday's astrological forecast is most intriguing with a baffling and challenging condition in which opposition, adverse and conflicting situations or events, demand a paramount adoption of shrewd and sagacious handling, with skill, insight, preparation and keen discrimination figuring to the highest degree. It may "take everything you've got" to meet and conquer strange, abrupt and compelling events or circumstances. Objectives, plans, techniques, physical energies and mental alertness, with reactions on all affiliations, call for acute comprehension and realistic management of complex situations. A "master mind" could attain great heights of accomplishment.

If It Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a cycle which the richest and most dramatic rewards for honest endeavor, inspired by novel, ingenious, and deep-seated talents and insight might suddenly rise to sensational recognition or unlooked-for denouements. These basic foundations are seemingly born of strange or exceptional flashes of genius or bold adventure. Originality and novelty have high appraisal with paramount rewards, if carefully developed and sagaciously capitalized. A sudden and breathtaking opportunity for sound and pragmatic patterns and objectives is forecast.

A child born on this day should be endowed with exceptional talents, skills and aspirations, in which splendid rewards crown ing, if, indeed, he recovered at all. But that terrible fear was gone now; Bill had awakened and a little bewildered, but obviously quite normal in his mind. Which was something to give thanks for as long as they both lived. She looked down at him now, with the tears slipping down her cheeks, while the doctor examined Bill and then turned to her.

"Here, here, Mrs. Kendall," he said sternly, and as though he had flung cold water in her face, Cathy strained and the tears eased, and she stared at him, wide-eyed.

"Mrs. Kendall!" she breathed. "Oh, but that's a lovely name, isn't it, Doctor?"

Dr. Rodgers smiled and patted her shoulder.

"You've been a mighty brave girl, Mrs. Kendall—you mustn't let go now. What you need is about twenty-four hours' sleep. We'll put someone else on duty here and you go home and sleep."

"Oh, no, please don't send me away."

"Now, see here, Mrs. Kendall, you're not a nervous, neurotic young thing; you are a nurse, and you've been through the war. You pull yourself together and realize that while Bill is just lying here sleeping, he can spare you very well. But once he is beginning to come to himself, he's going to need you badly. He'll sleep twelve hours, and you know that as well as I do. So you go home and get some rest. We'll put you to bed here if we were not already packed to the doors."

There was no denying the truth of the doctor's words, and Cathy was sane enough to know that she could be of little service to Bill if she drove herself to the point of mental as well as physical exhaustion. While he slept, there was little or nothing she could do for him. But when he awoke—

"You're quite right, of course, Doctor," she apologized, and managed a small smile. "I'll go home, of course—but if there is the slightest, tiniest change, you'll call me?"

"Of course. You may take my word on that," said Dr. Rodgers, and led her outside the room, his hands gentle on her tired shoulders.

Now that the strain under which she had passed so many hours had lessened a little, Cathy was numb with weariness and half blind for lack of sleep. She almost felt her way down the stairs and started across the lobby. But as she did so, a woman appeared at the door of the reception room and called to her sharply. Cathy turned and saw Edith Kendall coming toward her, her haggard face twisted.

"Cathy—he's—he's not—"

The words died unspoken in Mrs. Kendall's throat.

"Of course not—he's better. He woke up," said Cathy radiantly. Suddenly Mrs. Kendall was weeping stormily, and Cathy's arms were about her, steadying her, easing her out of the lobby and into the bright late afternoon sunlight.

The Kendall car was there, and the Kendall chauffeur was behind the wheel. When he saw his distraught mistress, he looked shocked; the next moment he was out of the car, helping to ease his mistress into it.

Mrs. Kendall kept her hand on Cathy's arm, saying urgently, "You're coming home with me, Cathy? You must. It's your home, after all."

"Maggie will be worried about me," Cathy asked to get back to the pretty little room Maggie had so lovingly built for her while she had been gone to war.

"Maggie was here a couple of hours ago," said Mrs. Kendall quickly. "The whole town is ringing with the story of your marriage to Bill, and Maggie came to see how he was. We had a talk and I told her that your home should be with us now, and she agreed. I told her you'd come and pack your things—and anyway, she's still got a houseful of children whose parents were injured, or whose homes were destroyed. Cathy, please come."

And Cathy, for all her hunger to get back to her own room, saw that there was nothing to be gained by continuing to argue, so she got into the car. Mrs. Kendall kept Cathy's fingers in her own, and as they picked their way through the destruction that was beginning to show some signs of order, Mrs. Kendall chattered of the news of the town. The plant had been wrecked and it would take at least six months to rebuild it and get it into operation. It was obvious that she felt the things that lay between herself and Cathy were much too private to be discussed behind the broad back of the chauffeur, and Cathy privately agreed with her, grateful for the camouflage of small talk behind which she could compose herself somewhat and prepare for whatever Edith Kendall might have in mind once they were in private.

Mrs. Kendall bore Cathy into the house on a continuing chatter of light talk, and up the stairs to the room Cathy had had previously.

"Elaine ran out to Mrs. Westbrook's and packed a bag for you. Just a few things she thought you'd need, until there is a chance for you to go out and remove the rest of your belongings," she said chattily, and indicated the closet. "Tessie put things away for you."

"You're very kind," said Cathy automatically.

Mrs. Kendall hesitated and then she burst out frankly.

"Cathy, I haven't been kind at all. I've been a selfish, jealous, malicious old woman. I've been dominating everybody and forcing my will upon them, and never realized until I almost lost my boy how wicked I was! I owe you a very honest and sincere apology. Cathy—I'm sorry."

Cathy said swiftly, "Please don't—"

Mrs. Kendall smiled wryly. "Better let me finish now, Cathy, while I'm in the mood," she interrupted. "I'm softened now by what has happened. I'll probably change again as soon as Bill is safely out of danger. I expect you'll have a lot to put up with from me, though. I'll honestly try to—behave myself."

Ethel L. Hussey Weds Raymond U. Whitney Sunday Afternoon

Vows Exchanged In Lutheran Church

Decorated Christmas trees and branches of spruce festooned in the lights and bouquets of poinsettia flanked by seven branched candelabra, were used on the altar of Trinity Lutheran church Sunday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Ethel Lillian Hussey, Circleville, and Raymond U. Whitney of Osborn. The Rev. George L. Troutman officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hussey, Watt street, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitney of Chardon.

Carl Palm played the wedding prelude as the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. She wore a formal gown of white satin designed with a high round neck with a sheer yoke outlined in satin leaf and bow applique. The fitted bodice fastened down the back with self covered buttons to the fitted midriff. Long sleeves tapered over her hands and the full skirt terminated into a circular train.

Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book topped with a spray of gardenias and sweetheart roses. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls.

Given to her by an aunt, as a confirmation gift.

Miss Nellie Swackhamer of Osborn was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty Jane Carlisle, Columbus, and Miss Ruth Esther Blum, Circleville. The attendants were attired in gowns of white taffeta, styled with iridescent rhinestone cap sleeves fitted bodices and bouffant skirts. Each wore a garland of mistletoe in their hair and the bride's gift of pearls and carried colonial bouquets of red roses.

Herbert L. Whitney of Chardon was best man for his brother. Seating the guests were Earl K. Hussey, Circleville, brother of the bride, and James A. Collins of Osborn. Mrs. George L. Troutman sang three pre-nuptial numbers accompanied by Mr. Palm at the organ.

The brides' parents were hosts at a reception in the Pickaway Arms immediately following the ceremony. Poinsettia, ferns and a Christmas tree provided a background as refreshments were served buffet style.

A three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom centered the brides' table.

Mrs. Hussey received her guests in a gray frock with accents of black. Mrs. Whitney, selected for the occasion an aqua dress and used brown accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of gardenias.

The new Mrs. Whitney was graduated by Circleville high school and Ohio State university. She is an instructor in the Bath school, Osborn near Dayton, and a member of Osborn Business and Professional Women's club.

Mr. Whitney was graduated by Chardon high school and attended Franklin university. He served in the U. S. Air Corps and is employed at Wright Field, Dayton.

A navy blue gaberdine suit with white lizard accessories and the corsage of roses from her prayer book was worn by the bride when the couple left for a trip through the south. After January 5, the new Mr. and Mrs. Whitney will make their home at 506 North Central avenue, Osborn.

Household Hints

When you buy a rug, you should first examine it carefully to get a good idea of the type of weave and quality of the material and construction. Does the appearance and "feel" of the rug indicate good quality material? Is the pile all wool, or what fibres are used? What is the material of the backing? Density of the pile is very important. Is it firm, compact and dense? Bend the rug back over the hand, separating the rows of pile tufts. Are the tufts dense and close? Note the way in which the tufts are bound in. Consider the depth of pile in relation to density of pile. All these things count in the wear of the rug.

It is safest to plug in an electric appliance by first attaching the cord to the appliance itself, then plugging it into the outlet. To disconnect, take hold of plug rather than cord.

Ethel L. Hussey Weds Raymond U. Whitney Sunday Afternoon

Vows Exchanged In Lutheran Church

Decorated Christmas trees and branches of spruce festooned in the lights and bouquets of poinsettia flanked by seven branched candelabra, were used on the altar of Trinity Lutheran church Sunday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Ethel Lillian Hussey, Circleville, and Raymond U. Whitney of Osborn. The Rev. George L. Troutman officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hussey, Watt street, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitney of Chardon.

Carl Palm played the wedding prelude as the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. She wore a formal gown of white satin designed with a high round neck with a sheer yoke outlined in satin leaf and bow applique. The fitted bodice fastened down the back with self covered buttons to the fitted midriff. Long sleeves tapered over her hands and the full skirt terminated into a circular train.

Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book topped with a spray of gardenias and sweetheart roses. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, given to her by an aunt, as a confirmation gift.

Miss Nellie Swackhamer of Osborn was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty Jane Carlisle, Columbus, and Miss Ruth Esther Blum, Circleville. The attendants were attired in gowns of white taffeta, styled with iridescent rhinestone cap sleeves fitted bodices and bouffant skirts. Each wore a wreath of mistletoe in their hair and the brides' gift of pearls and carried colonial bouquets of red roses.

Herbert L. Whitney of Chardon was best man for his brother. Seating the guests were Earl K. Hussey, Circleville, brother of the bride, and James A. Collins of Osborn. Mrs. George L. Troutman sang three pre-nuptial numbers accompanied by Mr. Palm at the organ.

The brides' parents were hosts at a reception in the Pickaway Arms immediately following the ceremony. Poinsettia, ferns and a Christmas tree provided a background as refreshments were served buffet style.

A three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom centered the brides' table. Mrs. Hussey received her guests in a gray frock with accents of black. Mrs. Whitney, selecte for the occasion an aqua dress and used brown accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of gardenias.

The new Mrs. Whitney was graduated by Circleville high school and Ohio State university. She is an instructor in the Bath school, Osborn near Dayton, and a member of Osborn Business and Professional Women's club.

Mr. Whitney was graduated by Chardon high school and attended Franklin university. He served in the U. S. Air Corps and is employed at Wright Field, Dayton.

Household Hints

When you buy a rug, you should first examine it carefully to get a good idea of the type of weave and quality of the material and construction. Does the appearance and "feel" of the rug indicate good quality material? Is the pile all wool, or what fibres are used? What is the material of the backing? Density of the pile is very important. Is it firm, compact and dense? Bend the rug back over the hand, separating the rows of pile tufts. Are the tufts dense and close? Note the way in which the tufts are bound in. Consider the depth of pile in relation to density of pile. All these things count in the wear of the rug.

It is safest to plug in an electric appliance by first attaching the cord to the appliance itself, then plugging it into the outlet. To disconnect, take hold of plug rather than cord.

Solons Say Session To Be Lengthy

Conventions Cause Concern

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Congressional spokesmen of both parties regard it today as "impossible" to complete their regular session agenda in time for the 1948 presidential conventions.

This pessimism is strongest in the senate, where it is held by Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, the GOP policy chairman and presidential candidate.

House Speaker Martin (R) Mass., still is shooting for an adjournment before the June 21 Republican convention.

But just before leaving Washington on a two-day, midwest speaking trip, Taft said of the June adjournment outlook: "I imagine it would be impossible."

SIMILARLY—Sen. Sparkman (D) Ala., a freshman senator but a veteran of house service, said: "I don't see how it will be possible to complete all the work we have to do before the Republican convention meets in Philadelphia. We'll simply have to recess for both conventions, then come back and finish our job."

The Democratic national convention meets in Philadelphia the week of July 13. Because of the intervening July Fourth holiday, congress would not hope to accomplish much between the two conventions.

Facing a list of 30 legislative items on which the Republican majority is being "pressed" for action starting in January, Taft hopes to line up an affirmative program at the opening of the session.

THE REPUBLICAN leader said one of the first things which probably will have to be done is push back the deadline for submission of the joint economic report. Taft explained that it would be difficult to analyze President Truman's economic report and get agreement on the findings of 14 legislators by Feb. 1, the required date.

GOP leaders also are looking for a way around the requirement for a budget "ceiling" by Feb. 15, a requirement they failed to meet in the last regular session.

Bradley Urges UMT Program

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 29.—Gen. Omar Bradley, the Army's next chief of staff, believes universal military training the only answer to the problem of America's security—regardless of the atom bomb.

Accompanied by Mrs. Bradley, the general arrived in Pasadena yesterday to serve as grand marshal of the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day. Bradley said:

"We must have trained reserves, not words alone, to maintain our position. I realize such a plan involves quite a departure from our traditional way of doing things but, at the moment, there is no better method."

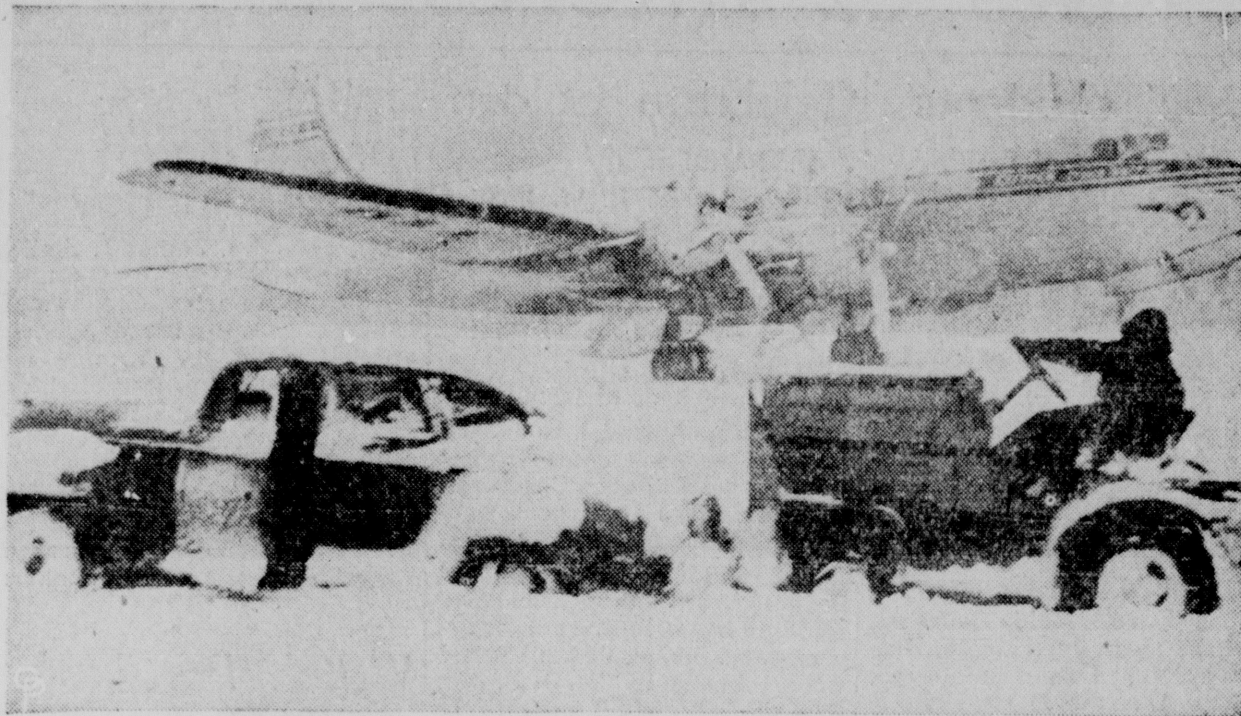

Steel Output To Stay Tight

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—Despite an estimated peacetime steel production record of 84,709,000 tons of ingots in 1947, Magazine Steel predicted today that little easing of supply is in prospect until the middle of 1948.

The national weekly of the metalworking industry declared that "steel activity is retarded by year-end influences but demand continues strong. In general, ingot operations last week reflected the loss or production Christmas Day though some mills suspended rolling schedules over the entire weekend. This week schedules will be drawn to much the same pattern."

RECORD 25-INCH SNOW GROUNDS NEW-YORK PLANES

AIR TRAFFIC WAS COMPLETELY BLANKED OUT in New York and its environs by the record-breaking snowfall of 25.4 inches, the greatest in the history of the city. Here, a tractor pushes a stalled auto through the heavy snow near one of the runways at New York's LaGuardia Field. The ceiling at the airport was less than 100 feet and visibility was zero, so that no planes (like one in the background) arrived or departed throughout the day. The field itself was completely isolated with no buses, limousines or taxis running. (International)

'Popping Noise' Is Reported In Murder-Suicide

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Juanita McKinster, 18, today described "a popping noise" that brought death to her mother and former stepfather last night at their home in Columbus.

Coroner Mitchell A. Spyker said William O. Garrett, 49, first murdered Mrs. Goldie I. McKinster, 37, and then turned his .32 caliber nickel-plated revolver on himself. He had been living at the McKinster rooming house since his February divorce from Mrs. McKinster.

The girl told Dr. Spyker that her mother had just returned home from a movie when Garrett followed her into the hall to the telephone.

Miss McKinster said there was no argument but "I heard a popping sound." She said she rushed to see what happened but Garrett waved her away with the gun. As she ran for help, she heard Garrett say:

"I'm going to lie down beside her and die."

Then the girl said she heard "the popping sound" twice.

Garrett lived only a few seconds after he arrived at St. Francis hospital.

27,942 Japs Facing Purge

TOKYO, Dec. 29.—Premier Tetsu Katayama disclosed today he is ordering a "provisional purge" of 27,942 erstwhile members of the Japanese army's former secret police, the dreaded Kempeitai.

The prime minister notified Gen. Douglas MacArthur's occupation headquarters of the decision.

Only 2,600 of the potential "purgees" served in Japan before and during the war. The rest operated abroad, chiefly in China, Manchuria and Korea.

It was explained the purge had not been instituted until now because none of the men involved were in Japan's postwar public service and thus had not been screened individually.

Coroner Says Columbus Cops Are Bunglers

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29.—Charges of bungling by Columbus detectives constituted an attempt to bring about unity in all law enforcing agencies, Franklin County Coroner Mitchell A. Spyker said today.

Over the weekend, Spyker charged that the city police department and the sheriff's office refused to work together; that homicide detectives in the police department are poorly trained and more interested in getting home than in doing their duty;

That potentially good homicide detectives on the city force are assigned to other duties, and that while the sheriff's office deserves credit for trying, it has no men qualified to investigate murders or even to properly question witnesses.

Spyker announced he would have the body of Elmo C. Rice, murdered Dec. 10, exhumed and would conduct a regular autopsy.

HE CHARGED there were five murders unsolved in Columbus since Summer.

The coroner also repeated an earlier statement that he would try to get money to hire his own investigators "as soon as possible."

Spyker said he intended to find out why a high ranking police official told him to "lay off" the Rice case and not to question a key witness—and why detectives waited three days to open the trunk of Rice's automobile.

'Popping Noise' Is Reported In Murder-Suicide

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29—Juanita McKinster, 18, today described "a popping noise" that brought death to her mother and former stepfather last night at their home in Columbus.

Coroner Mitchell A. Spyker said William O. Garrett, 49, first murdered Mrs. Goldie I. McKinster, 37, and then turned his .32 caliber nickel-plated revolver on himself. He had been living at the McKinster rooming house since his February divorce from Mrs. McKinster.

The girl told Dr. Spyker that her mother had just returned home from a movie when Garrett followed her into the hall to the telephone.

Miss McKinster said there was no argument but "I heard a popping sound." She said she rushed to see what happened but Garrett waved her away with the gun. As she ran for help, she heard Garrett say:

"I'm going to lie down beside her and die."

Then the girl said she heard "the popping sound" twice.

Garrett lived only a few seconds after he arrived at St. Francis hospital.

27,942 Japs Facing Purge

TOKYO, Dec. 29—Premier Tetsu Katayama disclosed today he is ordering a "provisional purge" of 27,942 erstwhile members of the Japanese army's former secret police, the dreaded Kempeitai.

The prime minister notified Gen. Douglas MacArthur's occupation headquarters of the decision.

Only 2,600 of the potential "purgees" served in Japan before and during the war. The rest operated abroad, chiefly in China, Manchuria and Korea.

It was explained the purge had not been instituted until now because none of the men involved were in Japan's postwar public service and thus had not been screened individually.

give you figures on that? We might even kill them in large quantities, say a hundred or a thousand at a time.

Are you horrified? Does the conscience twinge? Perhaps you will be less squeamish if it were, as it is, a slow death in concentration camps. A slow death for forgotten human beings. Maybe that makes it easier to think about. Or maybe you don't want to think about it at all.

But the fact remains that about 3,000,000 human beings, men, women and children, Balts, Serbs, Yugoslavs, Germans, Bohemians, Catholics, Protestants, and Jews and maybe agnostics and atheists, are homeless. Must they ever remain homeless and idle and hungry? Can they never tend a piece of ground or work at a machine or improve their minds? Are they never again to stand erect, head high and spirit firm in the God-given dignity of man?

Who is so sure of himself that he dares sentence another to such a life?

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.

Coroner Says Columbus Cops Are Bunglers

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29—Charges of bungling by Columbus detectives constituted an attempt to bring about unity in all law enforcing agencies, Franklin County Coroner Mitchell A. Spyker said today.

Over the weekend, Spyker charged that the city police department and the sheriff's office refused to work together; that homicide detectives in the police department are poorly trained and more interested in getting home than in doing their duty.

That potentially good homicide detectives on the city force are assigned to other duties, and that while the sheriff's office deserves credit for trying, it has no men qualified to investigate murders or even to properly question witnesses.

Spyker announced he would have the body of Elmo C. Rice, murdered Dec. 10, exhumed and would conduct a regular autopsy.

HE CHARGED there were five murders unsolved in Columbus since Summer.

The coroner also repeated an earlier statement that he would try to get money to hire his own investigators "as soon as possible."

Spyker said he intended to find out why a high ranking police official told him to "lay off" the Rice case and not to question a key witness—and why detectives waited three days to open the trunk of Rice's automobile.

UN Stalling Any Action Immediately

Panel Waiting For New Year

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 29—The United Nations begins a week of shadow-boxing today to tide over into 1948 any action on the major global problems calling for decision.

The only major group meeting at Lake Success before the new year is the 11-nation security council which holds its 1947 wind-up sitting tomorrow afternoon.

UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie is expected to propose means of tightening up the accreditation machinery for UN correspondents to prevent further incidents such as that which resulted in the internment at Ellis Island of two UN journalists.

The 14-member standing committee of UN correspondents, prevented from meeting on Friday by the record snowfall, is slated to consider the case of the two correspondents this afternoon.

One of those involved is Greek Nicolas Kyriazides, and the other is Syed Hasan of India.

THE U. S. STATE department charged that Kyriazides came to UN on a visa granted on the basis of accreditation for two Greek Communist newspapers, and that his staying privilege expired when both publications were suppressed by the Athens government.

In the case of Hasan, the U. S. government claims he changed his visa status from that of a student to that of active correspondent for the People's Age, an allegedly Communist newspaper published in India.

The scheduled meeting tomorrow of the security council, while mulling over the case of Indonesia, is expected to concern itself largely with farewells for the three non-permanent members leaving the group.

These are Poland, Brazil and Australia. The newly shaped council, to be called into session early next week, will include the newcomers Canada, Argentina and The Ukraine.

Cops-Robbers Play Costly For Teen-Agers

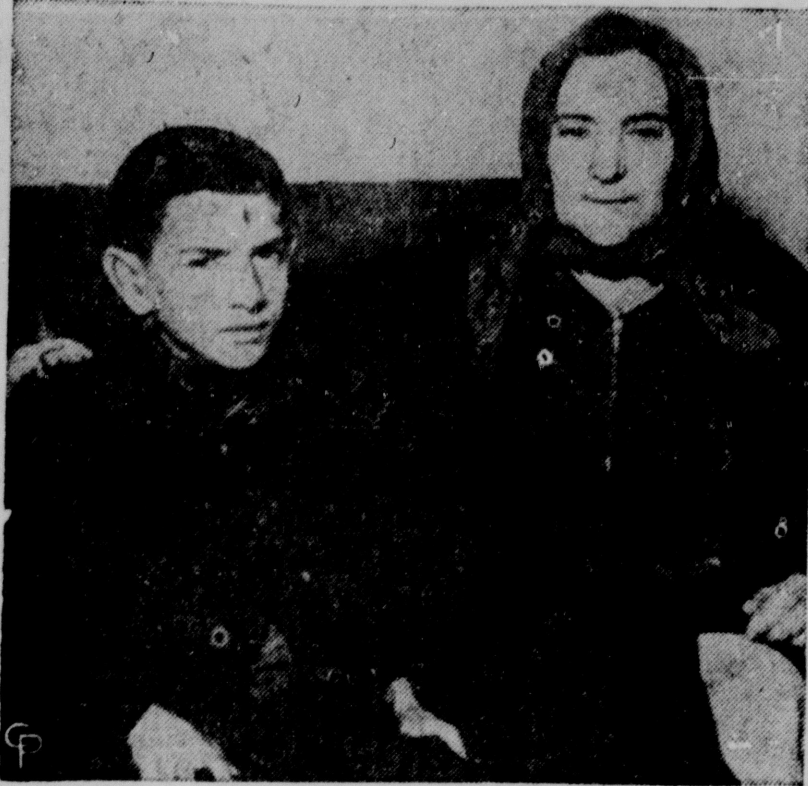

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29—Two Cleveland policemen proved to a pair of 19-year-old robbers yesterday that in a game of cops-and-robbers, the "good guys" always win.

Patrolmen Frank W. Savage and Edwin J. Hanus nabbed the two in a spectacular running chase over downtown Cleveland after the culprits had held up a restaurant.

The robbers started their attempted "getaway" in a cab but Patrolman Savage, on foot, cut through driveways and came out behind the cab which he halted by firing into the air. The boys and the confused cab driver, started running with Savage in close pursuit. Meanwhile, Patrolman Hanus backtracked to a block from the restaurant and was met, almost head-on, by one of the fleeing holdup men.

The policemen completed the capture when a passer-by told them that the second robber

HE STARTLES MEDICAL WORLD

THIS 11-YEAR-OLD Romanian boy, shown with his mother in village of Mehadia, is recovering from operation that aroused attention of the medical world. Complaining of pains in his stomach, he was examined by specialists who removed a five-month-old male foetus found lying beside the boy's liver. According to examining doctors, the foetus must have been originally a twin which had remained undeveloped inside the boy's body. (Internationals)

Military Chiefs To Give Panel Strength Data

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—The nation's highest military leaders have been asked to furnish congress with "top level" information on America's armed strength.

Capitol sources disclosed today that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, and other high-ranking officials have been summoned to appear before the house armed services committee when congress reconvenes Jan. 6.

The committee will meet for three days behind closed doors for a "confidential briefing" from the armed services. The Army will be heard Jan. 7, the Navy Jan. 8 and the Air Force Jan. 9.

Committee spokesmen insisted that it was just a new year's review of the military situation, but it coincided with disclosures that Army enlistments were falling off and amid increasing international friction.

IT WAS LEARNED that high on the agenda of the secret sessions will be a frank discussion of the military situation in the light of United States-Soviet relations.

In addition to Eisenhower, the committee is expected to discuss the military situation with Secretary of the Army Royall, Secretary of the Navy Sullivan, and Secretary of the Air Force Symington.

had hidden behind the restaurant. Patrolmen Savage and Hanus found him crouching behind a garbage can.

Girl Is Held For Identification

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 29—A young woman answering the general description of Paula Welden, missing Bennington college, Vermont, student, is being held today in the county jail at Charleston, S. C., awaiting positive identification. Police took her into custody after the manager of a trailer court where she was staying noticed her resemblance to pictures of the missing student for whom a nationwide search has been pressed since she disappeared Dec. 1, 1946.

They said she gave the names of Mary Welden and Mary Garrett and insisted she was from Texas, denying any knowledge of Paula Welden.

OSU '5' Ready

For Loop Debut

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29—Ohio State will head into its Western Conference basketball schedule this weekend with a record of three victories and two defeats.

The Bucks were aided and abetted in remaining on the credit side of the ledger by the University of Washington. After defeating Ohio Friday night, the Huskies collapsed Saturday and allowed the Bucks to romp, 68 to 60.

After a slow and ragged first half, the Bucks ran into a second half hot streak that saw them make 17 of 33 shots from the field. Actually, the game was more of a rout than the scoring indicated, for OSU had run up a 15-point lead before Coach Tippy Dye sent his third team into the game in the closing minutes.

The Bucks' first conference test will come against Northwestern Saturday night at the Coliseum.

EAST-WEST TILT TOPS

2 Upsets Predicted

Among Bowl Battles

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—The greatest conglomeration of post-season bowl football games ever arranged for New Year's Day will be turned loose on the populace at widely scattered points next Thursday.

Nearly a score of these engagements are scheduled and two upsets have been predicted by the experts.

In one, Alabama, with Harry Gilmer doing the passing, figures to make it tough, close and perhaps a win over Texas in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

In the other, Penn State's great line can stop Southern Methodist in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

IN FACT, this may be reckoned as an outright prediction of victories for Alabama and Penn State despite the fact that in the official wagering their rivals are rated favorites by seven points.

The other engagements should go pretty much to form, with the big tussle at Pasadena in the Rose Bowl an almost assured victory for Michigan over Southern California.

Barring the unforeseen, the big thrill of the day will be the aerial duel between the aforementioned Harry Gilmer of Alabama and Bobby Layne of Texas.

Ironically, the only truly justified game of the day is the East-West tussle at San Francisco for the Shriner's Crippled Children's hospital.

This one will be the least publicized, because it brings together star seniors from the East and West instead of intact teams.

The established prices on the various games are as follows: Michigan over Southern California in the Rose Bowl, 15 points and it should be 30; Texas over Alabama in the Sugar Bowl, seven points, and it probably should be vice versa; Georgia Tech over Kansas in the Orange Bowl, seven points.

EAST OVER West in the Shrine charity game at San Francisco, 7-1/2 points; Southern Methodist over Penn State in the Cotton Bowl, seven points, and this looks like another vice versa.

However, it will be the big day of the year for the competing kids and, of course, for the schools, too. This is a payday that will enable the participants to go on to bigger and better football teams.

Of course, the really big game of the day will be the one at San Francisco between the East and West for the crippled children's fund.

This Shrine promotion may yet see the day when it will be the only post-season college game.

Rocky Graziano, by virtue of his victory over Tony Zale, captured the top middleweight ranking, and Zale was ranked second. Bert Lytle, of Fresno, California, was placed third ahead of Marcel Cerdan, of France.

Champion Ray Robinson was in a class by himself in the welterweight division. Leading Group 2 were Tommy Bell of Youngstown, Gene Burton of Chicago, and Bernard Docusen of New Orleans. Tony Janiro of Youngstown, followed Docusen.

Ike Williams headed the lightweight division after winning undisputed possession of the crown. Enrique Bolanos of Los Angeles, surprised by placing second over Bob Montgomery who retired last week.

The Methodist Fellowship of postage stamps at the local office in December. The sales included 6,650 1c; 39,200 1 1/2c; and 14,850 3c stamps.

The Methodist Fellowship class was to meet Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Smith.

The Ashville senior class dance at the school Saturday evening was well attended.

Chicago's Cards Nab NFL Crown

Bidwell's Rich Dream Is True

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—The Chicago Cardinals own their first National Football League title in 22 years today, thanks to a fierce brigade of tacklers, a million dollar dream, and two jacks-in-the-box who sprang through an eight-man line.

The two fugitives from a horde of vengeful Philadelphia Eagles—Charlie Trippi and Elmer Angsman—scored two touchdowns apiece yesterday as the Cards won the NFL title game, 28 to 21, before 30,759 fans.

Only one Cardinal scoring play started from less than 70 yards away—and that one was a 44-yard sprint off guard by Trippi in the first quarter, a dash which put the Cardinals ahead to stay.

OSU '5' Ready For Loop Debut

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29—Ohio State will head into its Western Conference basketball schedule this weekend with a record of three victories and two defeats.

The Bucks were aided and abetted in remaining on the credit side of the ledger by the University of Washington. After defeating Ohio Friday night, the Huskies collapsed Saturday and allowed the Bucks to romp, 68 to 60.

After a slow and ragged first half, the Bucks ran into a second half hot streak that saw them make 17 of 33 shots from the field. Actually, the game was more of a rout than the scoring indicated, for OSU had run up a 15-point lead before Coach Tippy Dye sent his third team into the game in the closing minutes.

The Bucks' first conference test will come against Northwestern Saturday night at the Coliseum.

2 Upsets Predicted Among Bowl Battles

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—The greatest conglomeration of post-season bowl football games ever arranged for New Year's Day will be turned loose on the populace at widely scattered points next Thursday.

Nearly a score of these engagements are scheduled and two upsets have been predicted by the experts.

Lesnevich Rated Top U. S. Boxer

Light-Heavy Gets Highest Rating

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—Light-heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich eclipsed heavyweights today in Editor Nat Fleischer's annual rating of boxers, a copyrighted article written for Ring Magazine.

Lesnevich won out over Jersey Joe Walcott to gain the "fighter of the year" award.

Walcott's feat in almost winning the heavyweight title from Joe Louis gained him many votes, but Lesnevich, an ex-cvict, did much to improve the standing of boxing in winning four contests during the year.

For the first time history, three Negroes topped the heavyweight division. Walcott was rated second to Louis, and the two Jews were placed in a division all by themselves.

At the top of the second group, No. 3 in the world ranking, is Elmer (Violent) Ray, of Minneapolis. Olle Tandberg, of Sweden, surprised by gaining fourth place.

Gus Lesnevich and Ezzard Charles, of Cincinnati, were placed in group one in the light-heavyweight division. Archie Moore, of St. Louis, headed the list in the second group.

Rocky Graziano, by virtue of his victory over Tony Zale, captured the top middleweight ranking, and Zale was ranked second. Bert Lytell, of Fresno, California, was placed third ahead of Marcel Cerdan, of France.

Champion Ray Robinson was in a class by himself in the welterweight division. Leading Group 2 were Tommy Bell of Youngstown, Gene Burton of Chicago, and Bernard Docusen of New Orleans. Tony Janiro of Youngstown, followed Docusen.

Ike Williams headed the lightweight division after winning undisputed possession of the crown. Enrique Bolanos of Los Angeles, surprised by placing second over Bob Montgomery who retired last week.

Chicago's Cards Nab NFL Crown

Bidwell's Rich Dream Is True

CHICAGO, Dec. 29—The Chicago Cardinals own their first National Football League title in 22 years today, thanks to a fierce brigade of tacklers, a million dollar dream, and two jacks-in-the-box who sprang through an eight-man line.

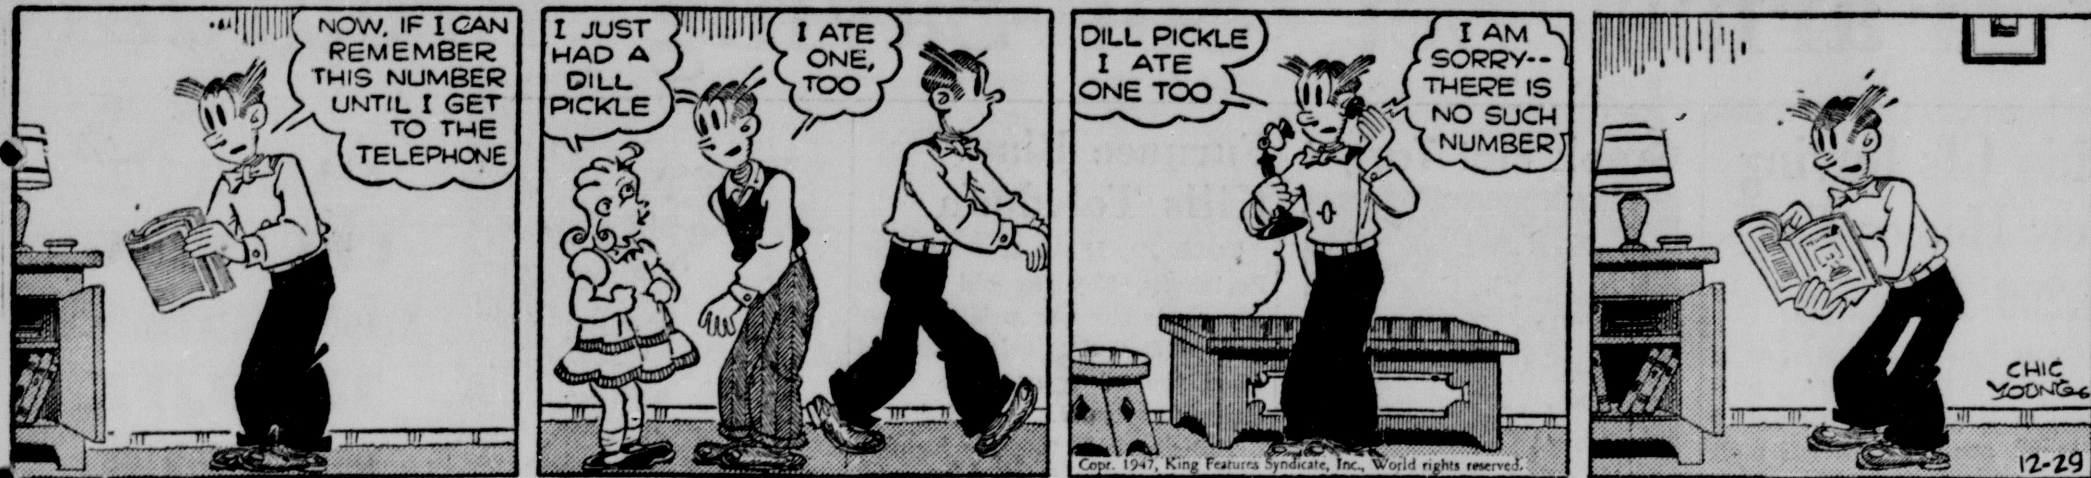

The two fugitives from a horde of vengeful Philadelphia Eagles—Charlie Trippi and Elmer Angsman—scored two touchdowns apiece yesterday as the Cards won the NFL title game, 28 to 21, before 30,759 fans.

Only one Cardinal scoring play started from less than 70 yards away—and that one was a 44-yard sprint off guard by Trippi in the first quarter, a dash which put the Cardinals ahead to stay.

A replica of the same play shot Angsman through for 70 yards and another Card TD in the second period. Trippi came back 75 yards with a punt for a third-period score on a slipping, stop-and-go run.

THEN IN THE final chapter, Angsman, on the honored quick-opener through guard, rifled 70 yards again for the final Cardinal counter.

Groucho Marx's ABC quiz show, "You Bet Your Life," has become famed for its comic pairings of contestants, such as a street-car conductor and a cab-driver, a teacher and her pupil, the most prolific mother and the youngest father, a woman shopper and a floorwalker among others.

James Stewart, Donna Reed and Victor Moore will be co-starred in "It's a Wonderful Life" when that hit film is radio dramatized on "Screen Guild Players" Monday, Dec. 29, 10:30 p. m. over CBS.

It's the heart-warming story for a young man who, believing that he isn't really needed on earth, learns through a dream sequence in which he and an "angel" (Victor Moore) are featured, that every man is of great importance to every community. Stewart portrays the doubting young man, while

A priest tells Herod that the coming of the Messiah portends a new era for the world. Herod, hoping to destroy a possible rival, asks the Wise Men to seek out the infant and tell him where the child can be found. The Three Wise Men visit the infant Jesus at the inn, bringing gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh. One of them dreams that they must go on separate ways, and not return to Herod. The Angel Gabriel appears to Joseph, warns him to flee with Mary and the Christ child into Egypt through the Sinai desert.

Charles Terry Ross, whose sound effects on ABC's "The Greatest Story Ever Told" have ranged from a leper's bell to a caravan of camels, is just completing what will probably be his most realistic creation--the sound of racing chariots. Chariots have appeared on radio shows before, but Ross, a stickler for accuracy, has assembled a contraption which uses actual wheels for its effect. Using old Biblical illustrations as a guide, Ross selected two four-foot iron-bound wagon wheels, such as are commonly used on farmer's wagons. The wheels are mounted on hubs at the end of a short axle, beneath which a motor-driven turntable revolves, surfaced with rocks, gravel and simulated ruts. When running, the device created such a din that it finally had to be placed thirty feet from the nearest microphone and operated by remote control.

107 Pickaway County Farms Set Soil-Saving Programs

18,754 Acre Area Plans Conservation

District Expert Urges Cooperation

A total of 107 Pickaway County farms, comprising 18,754 acres of land, now are operating soil-building systems under the local conservation district.

James A. Muster, conservationist for the Pickaway district, reported that as his office closes its second year of operation, 50 new county farms have been added for co-operation in 1948.

Muster said that during 1947, Walnut township led the county with 1,584 acres in 10 farms, followed by Deer Creek with 968 acres, three farms; Monroe, 846 acres, five farms; Mühlenberg, 845 acres, three farms; Jackson, 769 acres, four farms; Pickaway, 704 acres, two farms; Madison, 633 acres, six farms; Scioto, 544 acres, three farms; Wayne, 528 acres, four farms; Circleville, 369 acres, three farms; Darby, 318 acres, three farms; Washington, 298 acres, two farms; Harrison, 194 acres, one farm; Perry, 164 acres, one farm.

THE NEXT three to four months are the planning months, Muster declared, since December through March are comparative slack times for farm work. All farmers in the county who haven't yet applied for aid in preparing farm plans for 1948, should do so at once Muster said, so that they may start the new year under the most favorable circumstances that careful planning may afford.

Past records have shown that conservation-planned farms produce more per acre and at a greater profit than farms operating under other plans or with no plan at all.

4 Men Probed In Series Of Columbus Thefts

COLUMBUS, Dec. 29—Suburban Upper Arlington police questioned four suspects today about several Columbus crimes after the men were arrested late Saturday night for a five thousand dollar burglary.

David Cotner, 22, of Upper Arlington; Victor B. Smith of Columbus; Charles Wood, 20, of Cincinnati; and Charles L. Anderson, 23, who gave a Cleveland address, are the men picked up in Hebron where they had abandoned an automobile stolen in Cleveland. The car bore Cincinnati license plates.

A few hours earlier the quartet had held up M. H. Crane who was visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, Charles McIntire in Upper Arlington. At gun's point the men forced Crane into an upstairs closet and ransacked the house of five thousand dollars in money, jewelry, clothing and other valuables. All of the loot was recovered.

Ohio GIs Buying New Homes For $8,200 Average

Nearly half of the veterans in Ohio, who are financing the purchase of homes with the aid of GI loans, are buying newly built houses at an average selling price of $8,200.

Analysis of G. I. home loan figures over a four-month period shows that more than 45 percent of the loans were on new construction, and that the remainder were on homes previously occupied, for which the sales price averaged $6,675, according to James T. Shea, Pickaway County veterans service officer.

A current monthly average of 3,000 veterans in Ohio are using their loan guarantee rights for home purchases. This means that about 1,350 new homes per month in Ohio are being sold to veterans under the program, Shea said.

Since the first GI loan was made late in 1944, Ohio veterans states have negotiated 62,337 loans for $372,700,914, Shea declared.
